BAKER WINS RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Homer S. Baker, international half-mile running champion, showed some of his old time form last night in winning the 1,000 handicap run at the United War Work Campaign indoor athletic meet held in the Forty-seventh Regiment armory. The former New York A. C. runner, competing from scratch, triumphed over a field of twenty-two starters, some of whom had liberal handicaps. It was Baker's first competitive appearance in eighteen months, but he demonstrated that he still retained plenty of his former ability.

HERRON IS OUT.

William Herron, Western High basketball captain, is out with an infected foot.

MAY GET TOURNEY

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 14.—The Newport Casino officials will seek to have the invitation tennis tournaments resumed at the Casino next August. The invitation tournament would be under the auspices of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association.

players in the summer colony, as in the past, will be appointed by the governing committee of the Casino to arrange details for the tournaments.

CORBETT TO REFEREE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—James J. Corbett, former world's heavyweight champion, will referee the Benny Leonard-Jack Britton bout at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

GRIDIRON BATTLES TO AID BIG DRIVE

Quite a bit of football around these parts for the week-end. Georgetown University S. A. T. C. players, with a record of two games won, will play the Charleston Naval Training Station eleven on the Hilltop Saturday for the War Workers Campaign. Maryland State, in a similar benefit game, will try conclusions with the New York University eleven at the Central Stadium.

Central is expected to book a contest for Saturday morning. In the afternoon American League Park the Camp Humphreys eleven, of Accotink, Va., will battle the Tenth Regiment Marines from Indian Head in the Service League contest.

Gallaudet College goes out of town for a game with the Pennsylvania Military Institute team at Chester, Pa. The battle is an annual affair. Gallaudet lost last season, but expects, with Deer in the line-up, to come through to a win.

The change in the Maryland State-N. Y. U. game is a last minute switch. Coach Byrd, of State, was expecting to play at College Park, but made arrangements to meet the Gothamites in the stadium.

The State lads, high school boys for the most part, are familiar with the stadium as they got most of their experience there in championship football battles in the high school league. Athletic Officer W. J. Hazel, of Camp Humphreys, reports his lads ready for the Tenth Regiment team Saturday in the Service League game. The Humphreys men were expecting to come up with about seven All-American men, but as they were ordered overseas Hazel had to form a new combination.

Tenth Regiment Marines, on their 66-100 defeat of the Headquarters team recently, are being boosted as the dark horse of the circuit. After the Marines and Humphreys men show, the Service League fans will have a chance to compare the six teams.

Sunday's game in the Service League ends the Sea Naval Gun Factory team, leaders by their victory over the Seaman Gunners, opposed to the Army Medicos, who played a tie with Camp Leach.

Central showed no let-up in the championship form displayed during the past three years under Coach Metzler. The Centralites, with but two scrimmages this season, defeated Baltimore City by 13 to 6 and should have had two more touchdowns.

The Baltimore lads had the honor of being the first team to cross Central's goal line. When Weaver intercepted a pass and rushed over for a touchdown, Central was headed by six points for the first time in the history of the stadium sport.

Central came back quickly and, employing a shift, sent the ball over for a touchdown. The Baltimore lads could not stop Central, although they threatened to score in the final period.

John O'Reilly could not see his charges defeat the Washington Barracks eleven 31 to 0 yesterday. O'Reilly is in Boston attending the funeral of his brother, who died on Sunday. The Blue and Gray S. A. T. C. boys walked around, through and over the Marines for twelve touchdowns. Geggins kicked eight goals and Flavin one, which totaled up 41 points.

The Marines were stronger in the line than Fort Myer, but their backs were unable to penetrate the Hilltop defense. The game was almost a repetition of Saturday's affair with Fort Myer.

Georgetown's play was more smooth than on Saturday despite the lack of practice. The Hilltoppers executed their combination with unusual skill and shot passes, skirted the ends and flashed through the line with ease.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER

In boldly announcing that it will resume operations at the old stand in 1919, the sturdy Western League deserves all praise. It dares while others shiver at the prospect. Ban Johnson's whine that "permission must be obtained from the War Department" before the big leagues can think of playing ball again stands out in direct contrast with the Western Leaguers' attitude. They make no talk of "permission." They base their plans on the love of the great American people for baseball, that's all.

There will be baseball next summer. John B. Foster, secretary of the Giants, tipped us off when he said that unless the majors got under way "somebody else would step in." Foster realizes that baseball is not a monopoly enjoyed by a favored few, even if that few does happen to possess the best facilities at present. To maintain their position, the magnates just must resume next year. The fans are just as hungry for baseball now as they have ever been. With an absence of so-called "winter league" dope, they will be at a fever heat in the spring.

Both big leagues will gather next month, probably at New York, with a joint session. There will be enough players available to offer at least as good a brand of baseball as was shown last summer. The public is patient. It doesn't look for the impossible. The magnates will agree to resume with what material they have, gradually increasing the value of their attraction with the demobilization of the huge American army. You can bet on that.

Oh Yes, They Did.

An anonymous writer hastens to inform us that Michigan's famous "Point a Minute" eleven did not play teams of the caliber that Georgia Tech has smothered badly in the past two years. Oh yes, they did. Allowing always for the difference in the style of play and the scoring methods, Michigan did quite as well.

The Wolverines won from Chicago in 1901, 27 to 0; in 1902, by 21 to 0; in 1903, by 28 to 0, and in 1904, by 22 to 12. And remember, Chicago was no weakling in those years, and was Michigan's big rival.

Tech's rise comparable to Michigan's Chicago of those days is Auburn. Tech's score against Auburn in 1915 was 7 to 0. In 1916, 33 to 7, and last season, 68 to 0. Figures don't mean everything. For instance, mere additions prove nothing of the relative merits of these two great scoring machines. But Michigan has nothing for which to grieve.

To All Fathers.

What would you do if he came clattering down stairs, carefully opened the door, peeked in and cried, "Hello, kiddie" and he was only two years old? We ask you.

"Greasy" is There.

In the summer "Greasy" Neale plays in the outfield for the Cincinnati Reds, slams other players on the jaw (see Leo Magee, Fred Toney, and Bill Killifer), and generally excites folks by his thundering ability on the diamond. And in the fall "Greasy" remembers his dear old alma mater and climbs into his hot met and scrambles folks' faces on the gridiron.

Last Sunday "Greasy" appeared in Detroit, fullback for the Dayton professional eleven. All he did to the Detroit Herald was to boot a field goal from the 14-yard line, called a fumble, threw and caught forward passes, and tackled every opponent taking the ball.

Georgetown well recalls "Greasy" Neale's great work at right end for West Virginia Wesleyan four or five years ago. The big fellow trundled down the field several times with forward passes for touchdowns. He played like two men. But it was new stuff to Detroit.

"Extree Paper!"

By greased wirehairs, Reuters Agency via Wilhelmshaven.

The Exchange Telegraph reports today that the Berlin Journal has received information from the Detroit Times that Capt. Tyrus R. Cobb, U. S. A., now with the chemical warfare branch somewhere in France, led all American League batsmen for 1918, with an average of .382. This report has been verified by the Copenhagen Handelsblad, via Vladivostok.

TALK NEW LEAGUES AT MINOR MEETING

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 14.—Magnates attending the annual minor league meeting here are discussing the formation of two circuits. Cities in the present International and American Association circuits are included in the proposed leagues.

One league discussed would have teams in Baltimore, Toronto, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Newark, Indianapolis, Columbus and Toledo. This is part American Association and part International League clubs.

The other league would have clubs in Louisville, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Peoria, Kansas City, Des Moines and St. Joseph, with another city to be named.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Keene Fitzpatrick has turned out a strong eleven at Princeton this season.

Pennsylvania is going to Pittsburgh confident of at least holding the Panthers to a small score.

Dan Hurley, former halfback and captain at Harvard, is coaching the Camp Upton team which plays Princeton Saturday in New York.

Carroll, who played tackle at Colgate a few years ago, is playing his old position for the Camp Upton team with great success.

Pennsylvania will award the "P" to each man battling against Pittsburgh or Dartmouth. A large number of letters are expected.

Washington and Jefferson came out of the Pitt game badly battered. Garbisch has a cracked leg bone which may keep him off the field for the remainder of the season.

Penn State has a hard time getting its offensive strengthened before meeting the powerful Lehigh eleven Saturday. Penn State was helpless against Rutgers last week.

TO REVIVE TITLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Renewal of the Western golf championship, dropped during the period of the war, may be ordered resumed by the Western Golf Association at its meeting in January.

This is the expectation of the president, Charles F. Thompson, who said today that even if the national and Western championships were not held next season, most of the sectional and state tournaments would be scheduled.

HOLD SECRET DRILL

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 14.—The Midshipmen are in earnest about beating Great Lakes. Coach Noble has ordered secret practice from now until next week Friday. Great Lakes plays in New York Saturday and will remain in the East for the big battle here on November 25, so Noble will take no chances of having spies in the stands watching his team at work. No one will be allowed to watch the team going through its drills.

LEONARD IS OUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Benny Leonard is out of the big boxing carnival Saturday night at Madison Square Garden. He dislocated a thumb in training and will be unable to oppose Jack Britton, as planned.

Soldier Bartfield has been substituted for Leonard against Britton. They met in a time bout Monday in Philadelphia.

SCHEDULE IS SHIFTED.

The high school faculty athletic advisers shifted the basketball schedule to start on December 3 instead of December 6. Doubleheaders will be played on Tuesday and no games will be played Friday.

HAVE GOOD OFFICIALS.

Charlie Brichley, former Harvard star, and "Buck" Wharton, of Penn., will be referee and umpire, respectively, Sunday when the Minola Aviators and Camp Dix meet in Brooklyn.

Great Lakes Loses Good Men

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Two Great Lakes football stars were put out of commission for the rest of the season in the football game at Notre Dame Saturday. It became known today: Willaman, fullback, formerly of Ohio State, broke his leg, and Bachman, ex-Notre Dame tackle, twisted his knee so badly that he will be unable to play for several weeks.

Ecklund, the former Minnesota star, suffered an injury to his back, which may bother him for a time.

TEN YEARS AGO IN SPORTS

Clark Griffith signed a contract to become president and manager of the Kansas City club. Griff prepared to move from New York to take up his duties according to a story current in Gotham.

"Bunny" Larkin and Charles McCarthy were mentioned as possibilities for the graduate manager's job at Georgetown University.

Georgetown's annual indoor field and track meet was scheduled for March 4, inaugural week.

"Fighting Dick" Hyland and "Bohemian" George Mennis reached an agreement to fight a ten-round no-decision bout at the Pacific Athletic Club, Los Angeles, Cal.

Sam Langford was matched to meet Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, at Sam Berger's Coliseum in Fresno.

Danny Maher scored 159 frisks, leading all the jockeys riding in England, August Belmont was fifteenth of the list of winners; Richard Croker, seventeenth, and King Edward, eighteenth.

Walter J. Travis proved best of the golfers during the year. Jerome Travers and Eben M. Myers were well in front as tourney winners for the year.

BAKER SELECTED.

H. S. Baker has been selected as official timer and scorer for the High School Basketball League games this season.

POLLOCK IN MARINES.

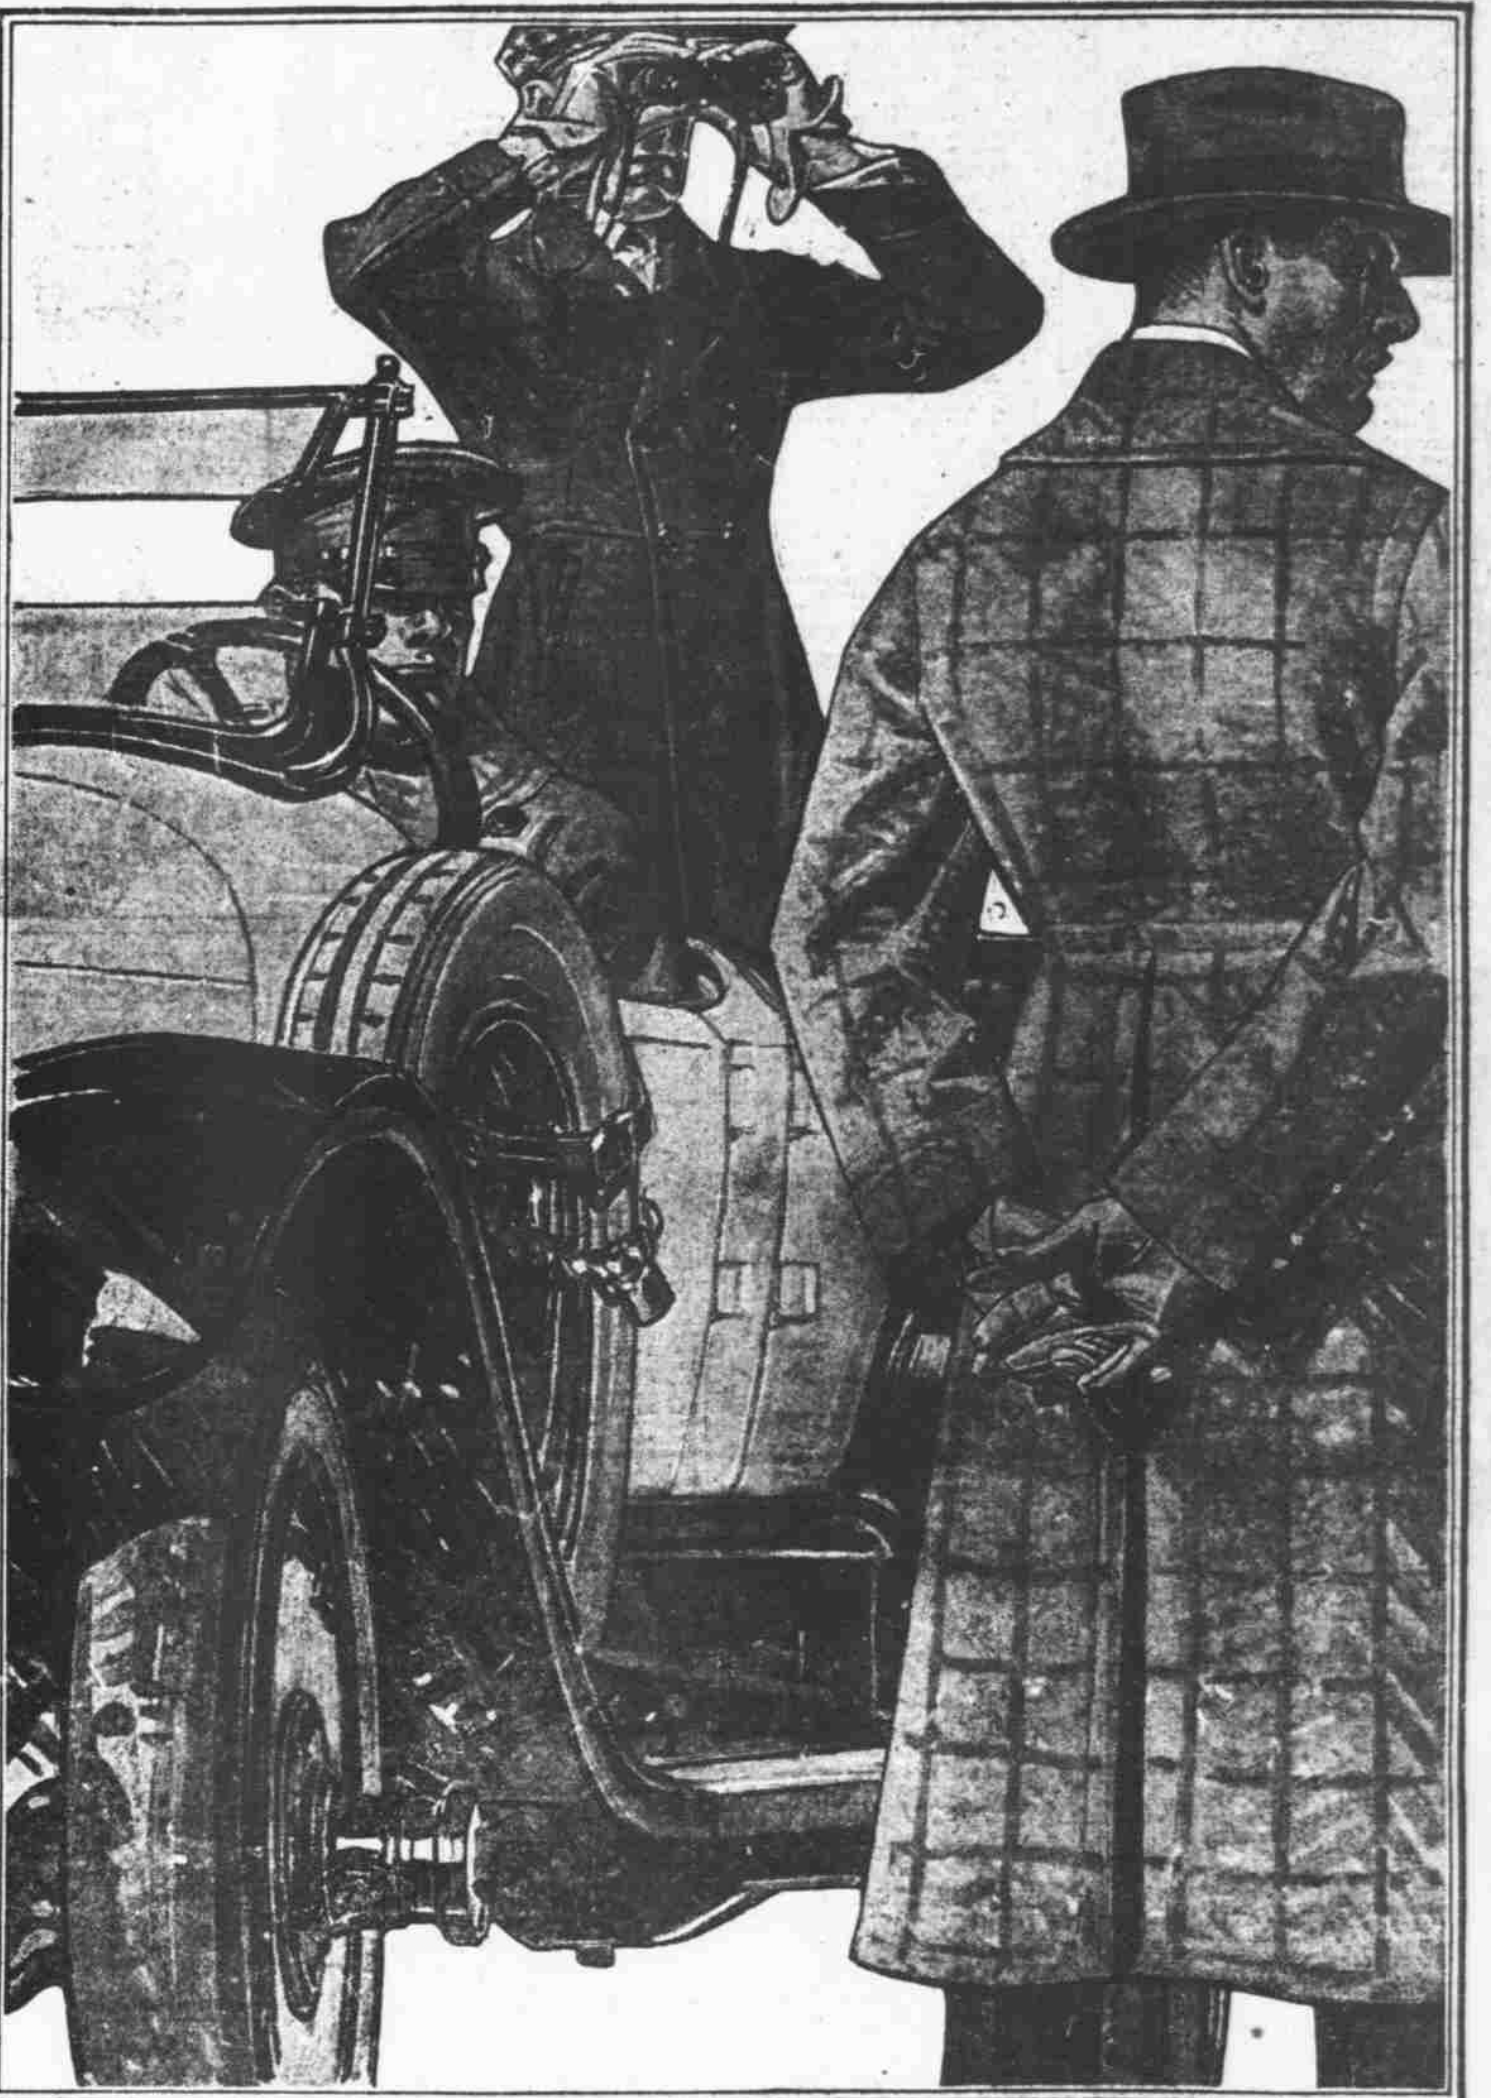

Pollock, Central's mainstay in baseball, enlisted in the Marines during the "flu" holidays and will not return.

DEER IS READY.

Deer, Gallaudet's crack fullback, has recovered from his attack of tonsillitis and expects to be in the line-up against Penn Military on Saturday.

LITCHFIELD IS LOST.

Coach Batterbury, of Eastern, has lost Litchfield, his only veteran backer for this season. Litchfield stopped school.
